- try to access systems, areas or data without authorisation;
- use automated tools in a way that overloads or damages the service;
- use content or data for unlawful purposes or in a way that infringes another person’s rights;
- impersonate the provider or claim to be acting with the provider’s authority.

The provider may restrict access in the event of abuse, a security risk or a breach of these Terms.

5. Intellectual property

Unless otherwise stated, original text, ebooks, images, videos, trademarks, graphics, teaching materials and other original content belong to Armand Thanasi or are used with permission.

You must not reproduce, modify, sell, distribute or publish content beyond what the law permits unless you have the provider's written permission.

You may share public links to the pages as long as you preserve the attribution of the content to its source.

6. Ebooks and free resources

Downloading an ebook or another free resource gives you a personal, non-exclusive, non-transferable licence. The licence may be revoked if you use the resource unlawfully.

You may keep and read the file for personal use. Without written permission, you may not resell it, license it, remove attribution, publish it in full on another site or systematically distribute it.

The provider may update, replace or withdraw a resource. This does not affect copies you have already lawfully downloaded.

7. Information and educational content

The content is provided for general information and education. It does not constitute personalised advice or guarantee specific results. You remain responsible for decisions you make based on it and should consider whether it is suitable for your circumstances.

8. External services and platforms

The site hosts videos played through YouTube and Wistia and links to external platforms including Spotify, Amazon, Udemy, Google Forms and WhatsApp. Some pages open an external service where you can apply for a programme or buy a course. The ebook request form and download are on armandthanasi.com.

Products, purchases, registrations and services provided directly by those platforms are governed by their own terms. The provider does not control external sites' availability, security or content, except for material published or offered directly in the provider's own name.

9. Availability and changes

The provider may update pages, content and features for technical, editorial, organisational or security reasons. The service may also be suspended temporarily for maintenance or for reasons beyond the provider's reasonable control.

Uninterrupted availability is not guaranteed. The provider will take reasonable steps to keep the pages accessible and resolve problems.

10. Liability

To the extent permitted by law, the provider is not liable for damage arising from misuse of the site, breach of these Terms, temporary unavailability, outdated devices, external services or decisions you make independently on the basis of general content.

All liability that cannot lawfully be excluded or limited remains in force, including liability arising from wilful misconduct or gross negligence. Consumers retain their mandatory legal rights.

11. Personal data and cookies

The Privacy Policy and Cookie Policy on the legal documents page explain how personal data is processed and how cookies and similar technologies are used.

12. Governing law and disputes

These Terms are governed by Italian law.

If you are acting as a consumer, the court with jurisdiction is the court designated by the mandatory rules applicable to consumers. In other cases, unless otherwise agreed or mandatory jurisdiction rules apply, jurisdiction lies with the court for the place where the provider is established.

13. Severability

If an individual provision is invalid or ineffective, the remaining provisions continue to apply to the extent permitted by law.

14. Changes and contact

These Terms may be updated to reflect changes in the law, technology or services. The current version and its revision date are published on the legal documents page.
